Description for Product Change Notification

The Radioline head station transceivers have been updated. Changes include removing the heat sink and replacing the thumbwheel and D Sub. As we continually test our products to ensure they are performing to the highest quality and ability, we discovered that the heat sink was no longer required and improved versions of the thumbwheel and D Sub were identified. With this improvement, there is no change to fit, form, or function of the transceivers and technical data for these units remain unchanged.
